

Concept Paper Examines Forest Carbon Market Impact on Forest-Dependent Communities and Forest Health

A U.S. Endowment for Forestry and Communities' Grant Funds Research by Dovetail Partners in Collaboration with Cambium Consulting

A concept paper is now available to support the project “Exploring the Potential Effects of an Expanding Forest Carbon Market in the United States”. The paper explores the potential effects of an expanding forest carbon market on working forests and the communities that rely on them in the United States.

The U.S. Endowment for Forestry and Communities has provided a grant to Dovetail Partners to conduct a project in collaboration with Cambium Consulting, with the goal of creating shared understanding around the potential effects of an expanding forest carbon market in the United States. The project has four distinct phases, designed to raise awareness and encourage consideration and integration of approaches to maximize positive outcomes and minimize negative impacts: development of a concept paper, a survey of stakeholders and interested parties, development of mapping strategies, and a convening workshop to be held in mid-2024.
